AFL-CIO Federation Claims: JFK's Recovery Program Not Jobless Stopper

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The AFL-CIO said Wednesday President Kennedy's economic recovery program is insufficient to stop rising unemployment unless augmented by a $5 billion temporary income tax cut.

The labor federation again advanced its plan to cut withholding tax payments taken from workers' paychecks by $10 a week for 10 weeks to give every taxpayer a quick extra $100 of spending power. Nearly $5 billion would be pumped into the economy in less than three months.

The report by the AFL-CIO's Economic Policy Committee,

Church Council To Stick To Voice Policy On Issues

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—Resisting heavy attacks, the National Council of Churches Wednesday stuck to its course of taking outspoken stands on public issues.

But an olive branch was waved toward some critics.

With the Bible cited as a guide book, the council pressed ahead to map declarations on government aid to education and on means to achieve better medical care for the aged.

Both are highly charged questions before Congress.

The council's president, J. Irwin Miller, a Columbus, Ind., manufacturer, said the voice of the church on such social issues "is seldom comfortable, often irritating."

"Can't Play Safe"

But despite "formidable criticism," he said, churches cannot "play it safe," but must continue "to speak up, and point the way" without fear, even at the risk of sometimes being wrong.

Proposed statements would endorse prepaid medical care for the aged through the Social Security system, and federal aid to public schools, with parochial and private schools excluded.

These generally are the programs urged by President Kennedy's administration.

The council includes most major Protestant and Orthodox denominations—34 of them with 40 million members.

Miller told the council policy-making general board meeting here that "a very considerable amount of criticism has been hurled at the council for its attempts to apply God's word to specific, contemporary problems."

But he added: "There is a solid, clear connection between the teachings of Jesus Christ and the 'clear, present desperate needs of society.'"

Since humans may err in projecting these principles into contemporary affairs, he urged constant self-restraint and self-criticism by the church council.

Some of the criticism of the council's position on social issues has come from smaller, more conservative groups, such as the National Association of Evangelicals.

The Rev. Dr. James E. Wagner of Philadelphia, head of the Evangelical and Reformed Church and co-president of the United Church of Christ, urged "prayerful consultations" with the rival camp.

He said the purpose of these talks would be "restoring confidence and communication" between those of differing Christian approaches.

Defends Stands

Defending the council policies, he said that, "When we publish a witness with regard to some phase of the economic system we are acting in the tradition of the Old Testament prophet Amos and St. Paul."

The statement supporting medical care for the aged through the Social Security system traced its Biblical base to Jesus' ministry to "the sick and suffering," and added: "The apostle Paul wrote that the strong should bear the burdens of the weak."

Lenten Meditation

By FRANCIS M. SEELY
Delaware Water Gap
Presbyterian Church

THERE is an inner peace for you which will keep you secure though neighbor may slander and loved one leave you, though disease may ravage you and war may blow you to bits.

It is the ancient peace known by Isaiah two centuries before the time of Gautama the Buddha. To the Israelites who sought to flee terror by speeding away on horses Isaiah brought the invitation to trust in God. "In returning and rest you shall be saved; in quietness and in trust shall be your strength."

Jesus knew that peace and said, "Peace I leave with you; my peace I give to you."

The peace of Jesus is a strange peace which brings no inevitable security in the sense that security is frantically sought today, yet it brings an inner security which stands against the batterings of hate, poverty, sickness and death. It is the security of knowing that God's hand is leading even through the valley of the shadow of death.

This peace is also peace with a purpose. And the purpose is the cross. While most of us have as our major purpose in life the escaping of crosses, Jesus calls us to take up our cross, willingly, for this strange man from Galilee knew that in voluntary suffering for others is to be found true peace.

This peace with its security and its purpose is also a peace with power. The power of Caesar vanished centuries ago. The power of Hitler lives on in only a few perverted minds. But the life-giving power of Jesus the crucified moves mightily on through the ages, the power of the Prince of Peace.

Would you have that peace that leads to such security, purpose and power? The invitation of God through the prophet Isaiah is for you—"In returning and rest you shall be saved; in quietness and in trust shall be your strength."

Major Airlines Set Deadline In Strike

WASHINGTON (AP)—Six major airlines Wednesday threatened to act against striking flight engineers unless the men call off their walkout by Thursday noon.

They set the deadline after a conference arranged by the government in its efforts to end the crippling airline strike. Officials of the six airlines met at the Department of Labor for more than three hours, much of the time with Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg.

Goldberg himself said after the meeting that "There is no reason or justification to continue the walkout."

Shuns High Post

Smith Yields

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's choice for the ambassadorship to Switzerland Wednesday withdrew his name from consideration.

Doing so, he yielded to firm, though informal, opposition from the Swiss government—and he also lifted the President from a somewhat sticky diplomatic limb.

Earl E. T. Smith, a Republican financier and Palm Beach neighbor of the Kennedys, announced at his Florida home he has asked the White House to withdraw his name "because of the controversy that has been stimulated."

President Sending Note To Nikita

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy is sending a personal message to Soviet Premier Khrushchev expressing hope that future talks between the two countries will be "fruitful."

Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson was instructed Wednesday to hand the message to the Soviet leader upon his return to Moscow.

Thompson left Washington later in the day after two weeks of consultation with Kennedy and members of his administration.

The diplomat has had four conferences with the President since his arrival here Feb. 8. These meetings, the White House said after the final session, "will enable Ambassador Thompson to return to Moscow with a clear understanding of the President's views on the matters discussed for his use as guidance in conversations with Soviet officials."

Thompson went to the White House with Secretary of State Dean Rusk. In the statement issued afterward, the White House said the envoy is taking "a personal message to Mr. Khrushchev expressing the President's confidence in Ambassador Thompson and the desire that any further conversations between Soviet officials and the ambassador will be fruitful and assist in bringing about better Soviet-American understanding."

Quiet Diplomacy

Kennedy's expression of confidence in Thompson was understood to mean a restatement of the President's belief in methods of quiet diplomacy. The new administration, officials said, is firmly convinced that the best way to explore new ways to bring about better Soviet-American understanding is to talk with the Kremlin through normal diplomatic channels.

This, however, does not rule out officials said,

Castro has been bitter against Smith, picturing him as too friendly with Batista—despite the obvious argument of Smith's friends that an ambassador to a country of necessity must maintain close contacts with its administration in order to do his job.

Castro's opposition probably would have been of small weight except for the complicating fact that Switzerland has been handling U.S. relations with Cuba since Washington severed diplomatic ties with Havana early in January.

This resulted in opposition from Bern on the ground that Switzerland's acceptance of Smith probably would be accepted as an affront by Castro and would greatly complicate the Swiss job in representing this nation in Cuba.

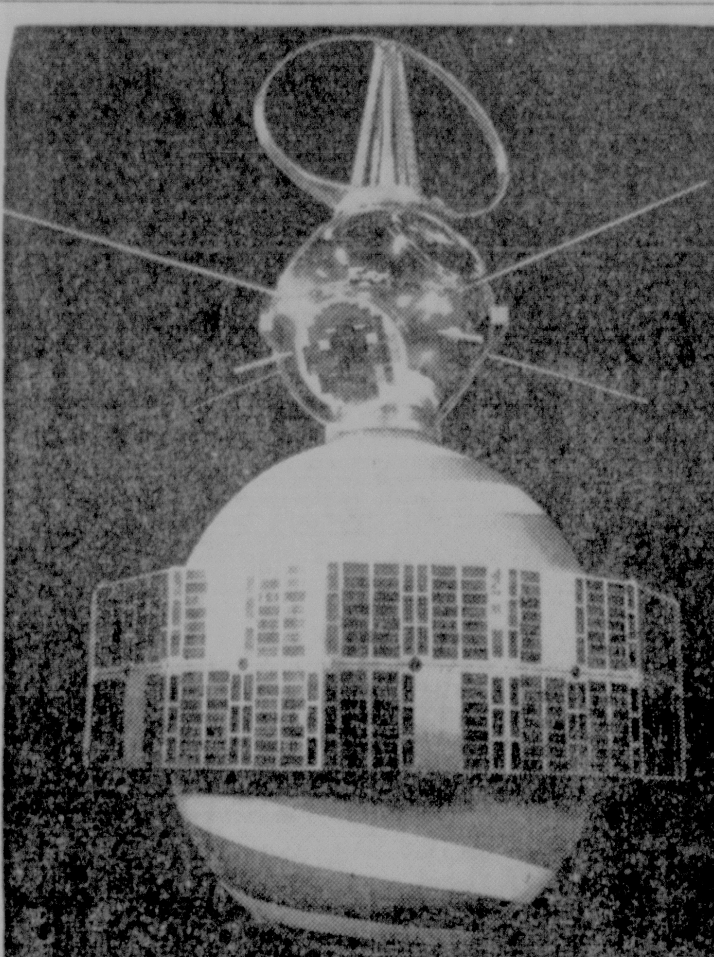

Polaris Range
To Be Widened

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—By 1964, atomic submarines carrying Polaris missiles will be able to hit any spot on earth, Vice Admiral William F. Raborn Jr. said Wednesday.

Twelve A-Subs will be in service by the end of next year, he said, and the range of the Polaris will be increased from 1,300 miles to 2,700.

CIRCLING THE EARTH—This is the doubleheader satellite that was launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla., which is circling the earth. Officials called it only "a qualified, a partially successful" shot. ## Astronauts Look Confidently To Rocket Flight

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—America's astronauts looked confidently forward to an upcoming manned rocket flight. But scientists of the transit navigation satellite project were disappointed that only one instead of two satellites had been orbited with a single rocket.

These contrasting moods were evident Wednesday as officials of both space programs assessed the results of a pair of major launches Tuesday at Cape Canaveral.

In one, an unmanned Project Mercury capsule was hurled 107 miles into space atop an Atlas missile and survived a punishing test which subjected it to the most severe conditions a man could expect on returning to earth from orbit.

15 Hours Later

Nearly 15 hours later, a Thor-Able-Star rocket thundered skyward in an effort to place two satellites into orbit—the 250-pound Transit III-B and a 54-pound hitchhiker called Lofti, which was to study space communications.

The Defense Department announced two hours after launch that both satellites were in orbit, but closer analysis of the data showed they had not separated—that they were whirling around the earth together, with the second stage of the rocket also attached.

Six of the seven U. S. astronauts—including two of the three who have been selected to train for the first manned flight—glowed over the latest success of the space capsule.

Alan B. Shepard Jr. and John H. Glenn Jr., two of those preparing for the initial flight, which is expected in two or three months, were asked at a news conference if they feel confident enough to ride in the next capsule.

"The answer is an overwhelming yes—a resounding yes," replied Shepard.

"Absolutely," answered Glenn.

Virgil I. Grissom, the third space candidate named, was in Bermuda, where he monitored Tuesday's flight from a control console in a Project Mercury tracking center. But he was reported to be as eager as Glenn and Shepard to make the manned flight as soon as possible.

The other four astronauts—Leroy Cooper, Scott Carpenter, Walter Schirra and Donald Slayton—indicated their disappointment at not having been chosen.

Carpenter summed up their feelings this way: "I'm naturally disappointed. But I'm aware that there will be other flights and I plan to be on one of them."

Lt. Col. John Powers, a Mercury official, said that the pilots for the first two capsule flights on a Redstone rocket will be selected from the group of three men already named.

He said a decision on whether a man will ride on the next Redstone suborbital flight has not been made.

"It depends on the final analysis of the data received from the Mercury-Redstone-2 launching," Powers reported. Ham, the space chimp, survived that flight.

Good Morning!

One of the hardest secrets for a man to keep is his opinion of himself.

Reject U. N. Council's New Plan

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Congoese Premier Joseph Ileo lined up with Katanga President Moise Tshombe Wednesday in rejecting the U. N. Security Council's new Congo plan. He called one phase "a declaration of war."

"The Congoese people are ready to die to defend our sovereignty," Ileo told a news conference. "We are ready to defend ourselves with all means at our disposal. If the U. N. uses force, we will reply with force."

The Katanga government's bitter reaction, however, appeared somewhat eased. Tshombe, who had ordered a general mobilization in his mineral-rich secessionist province, announced in Elisabethville the United Nations and Katanga have agreed to halt all troop movements "likely to lead to friction."

Political Killings

Unconfirmed reports circulated of political killings at Stanleyville in revenge for the slaying of ex-Premier Patrice Lumumba.

British diplomatic sources said a firing squad Monday executed 15 opponents of Antoine Gizenga's Communist-backed Stanleyville regime—men plucked from about 300 Congoese prisoners. An account published in London said one of the victims was Alphonse Songo, Lumumba's former communications minister who later broke with him.

U. N. headquarters here had no word about it.

Ileo deplored but disclaimed responsibility for the recent deportations and death of Lumumba and eight of his political followers. He said the deportations—Lumumba and two aides to Katanga and six Lumumba politicians to South Kasai—were carried out before his regime took office two weeks ago.

As for an international inquiry into Lumumba's death, he said "that is a problem which concerns the Congo exclusively." But he said his government is ready to cooperate with the United Nations "provided they respect our sovereignty."

Tshombe said no inquiry into Lumumba's death will be permitted in Katanga.

Came As Surprise

Ileo's sharp reaction to the Security Council plan came as a surprise. He particularly attacked the proposals for reorganizing the Congoese military forces and for U. N. soldiers, who have been restricted to self-defense in the use of arms, the right to use force if necessary to prevent civil war.

"They expect to disarm our army and that is a declaration of war," the premier said heatedly.

That is his own interpretation of the provision for reorganization. The council did not spell out exactly what it means. It could mean cooperation between U. N. and Congoese forces such as has been started on a small scale in Leopoldville. Congoese and U. N. Nigerian police share traffic control duties here and operate in joint patrols.

Flood Threat Not Serious

HARRISBURG (AP)—Ice jams caused minor flooding of the Susquehanna River Wednesday in Lancaster and York counties. But the flood potential on other parts of the stream and throughout most of the state was reported steadily diminishing.

The Federal-State Flood Forecasting Service at Harrisburg said ice jammed at Turkey Hill where the Susquehanna River channel narrows.

It spilled water on Route 441 at Washington Borough, Lancaster County and in low lying sections of Longleaf, York County, on the opposite bank.

A flood forecaster said the jams at that point in the river fluctuate. However, there appeared no immediate danger of serious flooding.

There were no other serious jams along the length of the Susquehanna. The forecasting service said the river crested at all points Wednesday and began receding.

The Delaware River Basin also had no trouble spots, according to the service.

Bowling Alley Blast

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—An explosion shattered the Sherman Oaks bowling alley on the north edge of San Jose Wednesday night and there were reports several persons had been killed.

LaBar To Seek Reelection As Bangor Chief Burgess

BANGOR — Quintus LaBar, who is completing his first four-year term as chief Burgess of Bangor, will seek re-election. He announced his candidacy yesterday in preparation for the spring primaries.

Winning a six-year term to the local school board in his initial appearance in politics, LaBar served for four years and then resigned when he was successful in his campaign for the borough post of chief Burgess. He is a Democrat.

Born in Upper Mt. Bethel Township, he is a lifelong resident of the area, with his present home address 303 N. 4th St. He is a son of Mrs. Harry LaBar, of Pen Argyl, and the late Mr. LaBar, and he attended Bangor public schools.

Former Patrolman
A plant patrolman for the Bethlehem Steel Co. for many years, he previously was employed as a hosiery knitter by the former Bangor Hosiery Co. He is a member of St. John's E&R Church and of the Advisory Board of the Salvation Army, Pen Argyl.

His wife, nee Reba Repsher, is a daughter of Charles Repsher, of Pen Argyl, and the late Mr. Repsher.

Mr. and Mrs. LaBar are the parents of three children. A daughter, Janet, is the wife of Barry Becker, Bangor. A son, Dale, of Bethlehem, will graduate from Moravian College in June. Another son, Brian, is in the tenth grade at Bangor Area Joint High School.

The couple also has three grandchildren.

Workers Saved From Trapping

HONOLULU (AP) — Six construction workers were rescued Wednesday less than an hour after they were trapped in a mass of fresh concrete.

Police reported they had only minor injuries. The men were working inside a 250,000-gallon reservoir. A beam snapped and dropped them 17 feet to the floor.

The collapse of the beam permitted tons of newly poured concrete to flow around them but they were not buried. The men were pulled out by rescue squads using a crane.

B&L Units Face 8-Mill Tax Via Bill

THE THREE building and loan associations in Monroe County will be taxed eight mills on their surplus and undivided profits under a bill approved Monday night by the State Senate.

The measure was previously passed by the House and now goes to Gov. David Lawrence for his signature. It is one phase of the Governor's $105.7 million program calling for collection savings tax commission changes, and extended levies on life insurance companies and savings and loan associations.

John N. Gish, treasurer of the East Stroudsburg Savings, Building and Loan Assn., estimated the new levy will cost the institution as much as $8,000 a year on the basis of present surplus and undivided profits.

Keystone Building and Loan Assn. of East Stroudsburg will pay between $450 and $500, according to an estimate made by Spencer C. Cramer, secretary.

The county's third institution of this nature, Commonwealth Building and Loan Assn., expects to pay less than $100. It was re-ported by two of its officers, Walter H. Dreher, secretary, and Joseph H. Small, treasurer.

The new tax will yield the state $4,600,000 a year, Gov. Lawrence predicted. It was passed by Senate with solid Democratic support and the help of one Republican, Sen. John T. Van Sant, Lehigh County.

Mrs. Brish, Bushkill, Dies At 54

MRS. Josephine S. Brish, 54, of Bushkill, died yesterday at 5:35 p.m. in Monroe County General Hospital. She had been in failing health for three months.

She was the daughter of the late Walter and Genevieve McDonald Stafford. She was born in Bushkill and was a lifetime resident of Monroe and Pike Counties.

Mrs. Brish was the president of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Bushkill Fire Co., a sub-clerk in the Bushkill Post Office for the past two years and prior to that an employee of Patterson-Kelley Co., Inc., for seven years.

She is survived by her husband, Chester A. Brish, at home; one sister, Mrs. Rita Schrieber, Brooklyn, N. Y.; three brothers, Joseph Stafford, New York City, N. Y.; Raymond Stafford, Jersey City, N. J.; and Donald Stafford, Rochelle, N. J.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 1:30 p.m. in the Lanterman funeral home with Rev. Harold C. Eaton officiating. Interment will be in St. Paul's Reformed Cemetery, East Stroudsburg.

There will be no visitation.

Dr. Appel Speaks On Washington

DR. JOHN C. APPEL, head of the social science department at East Stroudsburg State College, spoke on "George Washington, No. 1 Private Citizen" at yesterday's meeting of the Kiwanis Club.

He mentioned the first President's 45 years of service to the nation and told how Washington looked forward to enjoying a life of ease as a private citizen after leaving the White House.

The transition of power to his successor, John Adams, came easily, but many rough spots developed later, the speaker said. Tensions were created, for example, when the Cabinet sought Washington's advice behind Adams' back, and the public looked upon him, not as a retired president, but as the country's most eminent citizen.

Dr. Appel told of Washington's reluctant acceptance of the position of commander of the army when the United States and France broke diplomatic relations, and the wrangling that went on over his appointment of military leaders. World tensions eased in 1799 and Washington was never called upon to serve in the field, the speaker recalled.

He also spoke of Washington's life as a farmer, investor and philanthropist and of the events leading up to his death late in 1799.

Harold Rinker, program chairman, introduced the speaker.

Dedication Tonight At E-Burg

DR. RALPH Swan, deputy superintendent Pennsylvania Department of Public Instruction, will be the main speaker tonight at the formal dedication in the high school auditorium. The ceremonies will start at 7:30 p.m.

Supervising Principal Carl Secor will be in charge of the program, which will open with an organ recital by Kenneth Raessler, a member of the faculty.

The invocation will be delivered by Rev. Harold G. Durkin, pastor of St. Matthew's Roman Catholic Church, and the scripture will be read by Atty. Maxwell Cohen of Temple Israel.

Wright Will Welcome

Robert Wright, school board president, will welcome visitors and guests and will be introduced by Secor. The high school band will present a selection and William P. Doall, general contractor of the new structure will present the key to the building to architect Herbert Everett, of Everett and Associates; Edwin B. Hughes, chairman of the Authority; Raymond Hartman, past president of the board; Secor; Theodore Miller, principal of the junior high school; and Ralph Burrows, high school principal.

On display at the request of the high school student council will be paintings from Pocono Art Center. Artists whose paintings are displayed are Sterling Straussner, Henry Evans, Agnes Dyer, Marcus Clapp, Nancy Hebard, Peter Heiden, Harvard MacPherson, Otto Christ and David Harrison.

Youth Faces Charge After Accident

A 17-year-old East Stroudsburg youth will be charged with failure to stop at the scene of an accident as the result of a two-car accident on Second St., Stroudsburg, at 6:14 p.m. yesterday.

Borough police identified him as David Aumiller of 751 Washington St. They said his car was southbound on Second St. when it sideswiped a vehicle driven by Russell H. Rowe, 38, of 1628 N. Fifth St., Stroudsburg.

Police said Aumiller failed to stop and Rowe pursued him to Second and McConnell Sts., where police took over. No one was injured in the accident and damage to both cars was estimated at $250.

Why Help Russia?

Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges has authorized shipment to Russia of $1,500,000 worth of precision machine tools which presumably will be put to military use.

An Associated Press dispatch to this effect led a subscriber in Columbia, N.J., to speak out violently against the transaction in a visit to The Daily Record office the other day.

How, he asked, can we teach our children the evils of Communism when the government acts in this manner? His protest is well founded, we think, even though the sale may not prove crucial in the cold war struggle.

The sale involves 45 machines for making components for miniature ball-bearing systems. A similar deal was killed last year when it was left to the Defense Department.

Secretary Hodges approved the latest bid by the Russians to buy the machines on grounds the equipment could be obtained readily from Western Europe so why penalize American manufacturers?

In reply, someone has asked: why supply military aid, no matter how indirect, to a regime dedicated to our destruction? To hand a burglar a gun because he can get one elsewhere isn't very logical.

The proper approach, it seems to us, is to exert pressure on our Western European allies to prohibit shipments of a military nature to the Soviet Union, no matter how much business they may lose in the process.

Moreover, the ban should be broad enough to include Russia's satellites and all other nations trading with the Reds. Joint action by the United States and its allies will bring results that will benefit the free world.

Opinions Of Other Editors

Local Problems

Pennsylvania's successful efforts in the field of industrial development, involving the State, the local community, and financial institutions took the spotlight this week in Washington during a Senatorial subcommittee hearing on proposed Federal aid for distressed areas.

Today, our philosophy is that of the desire to have others do for us. And the latest concept is in the field of distressed areas.

Fortunately, Pennsylvania took the initiative and developed a program of helping—not underwriting local problems. PIDA assistance is not in the form of handout but low interest money. It has provided the stimulus on the local level in many, many communities to improve the community economically.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Cause For Disaster

The American people, including Congress, are becoming increasingly conscious of trouble about money. There have been other periods in American history when the currency was not "worth a continental."

That phrase is not used much these days but it was for a very long time a reminder of the issuance of currency by the Continental Congress. This money soon enough lost value. Similarly the notes issued by the Confederacy during the War Between the States lost value.

The greenback was a legal tender, non-interest-bearing note first issued by the Federal Government during the War Between the States and originally not redeemable in either gold or silver. Then the term, greenback, came to be used for any kind of paper money.

Secretary of the Treasury Chase used a patented green ink for this paper money, which was popular because it was accepted throughout the United States. Like all currency not supported by gold or silver or both, the "greenback" in due course lost in value.

A division developed between East and West, that is, between Wall Street and the farmers. The latter preferred cheap money, plentifully provided, producing inflation; the New York banks insisted upon a stable, hard currency supported by gold.

The Greenback-Labor Party went before the people and in the election of 1878, they showed remarkable returns. The major strength of this party was centered on bankrupt farmers who wanted easy money.

One of the principal items of farmers' distress was to find money to move their crops. The tiny banks of the farm country were dependent on the large reservoirs of capital in the big cities, principally New York, Boston and Philadelphia.

From their exactions, the farmers sought relief. In 1884, the greenback issue prevented James G. Blaine from being elected to the Presidency.

However, the Populist Party—often called the People's Party—supported cheap money. The Populists regarded the Gold Standard as a conspiracy against mankind. Organized in 1891, it was a Socialist party, accepting the doctrine of the class struggle and seeking to protect the worker and farmer against the bankers and the moneyed classes.

It was an outgrowth of the Farmers' Alliance which was very popular in agricultural states, particularly Nebraska. William Jennings Bryan, who three times was nominated to the Presidency, brought Populism into the then moribund Democratic Party and gave it new life.

William Jennings Bryan is one of the most astonishing characters in American history. He represented the "Common Man" who regarded himself as oppressed and who sought relief from the bankers and from the newly developed trusts.

Bryan's skill was oratory—an art now destroyed by radio and television. Men and women came to listen to Bryan because his voice, his gestures, his organization of words were things of beauty.

The 1896 Democratic Convention had to deal with the question of sound money, that is, currency based on gold, or currency based on the free coinage of silver. The convention was split—Bryan had practically no position in the convention and no following.

However, Bryan wanted the opportunity to deliver a speech to close the argument against gold. The "Cross of Gold" speech was oratory. It received the response of great oratory. At that convention, William Jennings Bryan was nominated for President. His peroration was repeated by orators throughout the country.

"Having behind us the producing masses of this nation and the world, supported by the commercial interests, the toilers everywhere, we will answer their demand for a gold standard by saying to them: You shall not press down upon the brow of labor this crown of thorns, you shall not crucify mankind upon a cross of gold."

The words, in terms of economic thought, meant nothing, but it stirred the belief that here was a man who could save the poor from poverty. Bryan was not elected but his unsound ideas have affected American political opinion since the "Cross of Gold" speech.

The United States resumed the Gold Standard. In fact, it developed a central control over money by the Federal Reserve System and this control, based on gold, continued until 1933, when Franklin D. Roosevelt took the United States off the Gold Standard and created the possibility of economic disaster which faces us.

About Town

Two first-graders stood talking in the school playground during recess when a jet plane flew over. "Look at that," said one, "it's a BX-50."

"No, a BX-51," commented the other. "You can tell by its wing sweep."

"You're right," conceded the first youngster. "But it's not going more than 760 miles per hour because it didn't break the sound barrier."

The second lad agreed on this point and remarked, "It's amazing the pressure that develops on those planes when they go into a dive—almost 1,200 pounds per square inch."

Then the school bell rang, indicating the end of recess and the first boy sighed, "Let's go back in and finish stringing those darn beads."

The Pennsylvania Story

Paying For U.C.

By Mason Denison
Harrisburg — Who's paying the bill for supporting unemployment compensation payments to Pennsylvania's more than half-million unemployed workers?

On the surface the question seems most academic; an answer by now seemingly known by nearly everyone. Is the answer actually that well known though?

Our curiosity was aroused the other day when we idly asked a carpenter doing some work around the house what he "thought" of the unemployment compensation program.

"Great, great stuff," he replied quickly and warmly. "That's one thing I don't mind supporting. It's wonderful when we're out of work. Sort of helps carry us over the rough spots. No sir, that's one deduction from my paycheck I don't mind. It's kind of a form of insurance."

We recovered our surprised wits enough to comment: "What deduction? Nothing is deducted from your pay. Your employer pays the entire bill. You don't pay one red or green cent."

He nearly dropped his hammer on his foot and with open mouth he managed: "Aw — you're kidding."

I told him I was not kidding indeed — but it did start us thinking. How many others "thought" the same way? Our curiosity aroused, the next day we jogged to Steelton, adjoining Harrisburg, where unemployment is heavy because of the sharp curtailment of the Bethlehem Steel Co. plant there.

Throughout the afternoon we asked ten unemployed steelworkers drawing jobless pay this single question: "As a point of curiosity, do you have any idea how much is deducted each week from your paycheck to help underwrite the cost of the unemployment compensation you are now drawing?"

The answers: Two said two per cent. Four said three per cent (apparently thinking of social security deductions, which incidentally as of the first of the year went up to 3.1 per cent). The remaining four said they didn't know how much and each added in effect that "however much it was — it was quite okay" with them.

Not one realized they didn't have to pay a cent into the fund — and not one realized that his employer paid the entire "contribution."

While none of this is indicative or conclusive in any manner — it was merely an inquiry — we were nevertheless flabbergasted to find that none of the ten queried realized that they weren't paying anything; that the employer bears the entire load!

The rate of contribution paid by employers varies in Pennsylvania from 1.6 to four per cent, depending on the degree of payroll turnover, on the first $3,000 in wages earned by the employee.

How much these employer payments amount to can be seen from the fact that at the beginning of 1962 the balance in the Unemployment Compensation Fund in Pennsylvania was more than a half billion dollars — around $607,000,000.

Today, with unemployment compensation payments running heavier and heavier, the fund this week stands at around $30,000,000 — plus an additional $102,000,000 in the UC pot resulting from a federal loan repaid in 1959 (which eventually must be repaid).

It is estimated that Pennsylvania's employers will pay some $270,000,000 into the State Unemployment Compensation Fund this year — exclusive of $75 to $85 million that may be added, depending upon congressional action expected to be taken up the UC program generally.

It's a point seemingly well worth noting.

Included in the material "inside" are photos of the Laurel Blossom Festival, ice racing, super highways which lead to the holiday spots, sailboating on PP&L's own Lake Wallenpaupack and Buck Hill Falls.

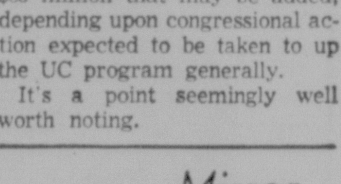

Other pictures pin-point Central Eastern Pennsylvania, showing spots of interest in that locale.

The reading material urges "busy people" to take in this beautiful terrain using the ultra-modern highways to travel from Central East to the Poconos all within a matter of a few hours.

PP&L even lists addresses for persons wishing further information on the ideal setup here. No stone was left unturned to give the Poconos and their Amish neighbors a publicity shove in the right direction.

The letter material is the brainchild of Don Diebel, head of the Area Development Department. One of Diebel's associates in the same department is E.B. (Doc) Ace, of Stroudsburg.

There is no doubt that the power organization has done a lot to develop the area and is looking forward to the future. Their latest writing paper indicates this in just a few words and photos.

The Allen-Scott Report

Seeks Boxing Controls

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott
Washington — Sen. Estes Kefauver is taking his two-year-old fight to clean up professional boxing to the Senate floor next week.

With the backing of his Anti-Trust investigating subcommittee, the Tennessee senator is readying a precedent-breaking legislative punch to knock out the underworld's influence in the big money sport.

Sen. Kefauver will ask Congress to pass legislation to establish a National Boxing Commission to police the fix-ridden sport until the underworld's monopolistic control of boxing is broken.

Fighters, managers, promoters, and referees will all be required to obtain federal licenses from the commission under Kefauver's proposal.

The commission, which would operate under the Justice Department, would be empowered to set standards for licenses that can bar known underworld racketeers and gangsters from taking part in the sport in any form—except watching it.

In effect, Sen. Kefauver will seek "life and death" powers for the commission over all boxing. His legislation will represent the most serious move in recent years to put any major sport under the control of the federal government.

Stiff criminal penalties will be provided for anyone convicted of taking part in the sport without a license.

Boxing Savior — In discussing his proposals with other subcommittee members, Kefauver stresses that these drastic steps are needed "if the underworld-tainted monopolistic control of boxing is to be broken."

He contends that the commission will be a temporary one — with a life of from three to four years. After that cleanup period, he reports that control over professional boxing is to revert to the individual states.

"This legislation isn't going to kill boxing," Kefauver says. "It's going to save boxing. Unless the federal government, with its vast powers, steps in now and rids the sport of hoodlums, gangsters, and racketeers, boxing will kill itself with its own corruption."

The Chairman of the Senate Anti-Trust subcommittee also reveals that under his proposal the commission would be given authority to "promote" boxing and that an advisory committee of leading citizens would be named to help boost the sport.

Members of the commission and the committee would be appointed by the President. The commission would be composed of one or three members pending the outcome of private talks now going on between Senator Kefauver and Attorney General Robert Kennedy.

Already, a draft of this dynamic-packed legislation is in the hands of young Kennedy. It was presented to the Attorney General by Kefauver as "another important weapon to be used in your drive to stamp out organized crime in the U.S."

Two world famed champions will headline Kefauver's hearings on his proposals next month. Former Heavyweight Champions Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney will present their views, as will Attorney General Kennedy and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

In his investigations, Kefauver exposed what he describes as a "massive conspiracy of the underworld to monopolize and control the sport of professional boxing."

Notes John Bonomi, 36-year-old subcommittee counsel, is slated for a top job in the Justice Department. "I want you on my team," Attorney General Kennedy told the New Yorker recently. Bonomi, as an Assistant District Attorney of New York County, played a leading role in the conviction of Frank Carbo and Gabriel Genovese, fight racketeers.

More To Come—The sensation-exploiting investigating subcommittee in the House that exposed Sherman Adams, rigged TV shows, and the payola scandals is going to be made a permanent "watch-dog" unit.

On the personal request of Speaker Sam Rayburn (D. Tex.), Representative Owen Harris, chairman of the House Interstate Commerce Committee, is abandoning his plans to ring down the curtain on the probers.

Instead, the Arkansas Democrat now proposes that the subcommittee continue to keep an eye on the major federal regulatory agencies and the activities of James M. Landis, special assistant to the President.

In making his request to Harris, the Speaker expressed his concern about Landis and the Czar-like role that he now has over the agencies.

"I'm concerned about the role Judge Landis is playing downtown," Rayburn told Harris. "The regulatory agencies are under the jurisdiction of Congress, not the executive branch, and that's the way it is going to stay. The President can put Landis in the White House by executive order, but he can't give him any power."

"I'm concerned too," replied Harris. "Do you have any suggestions as to what we should do about it?"

"I want you to continue your investigating subcommittee to keep a close watch on this situation," said Rayburn. "Make it a permanent watch-dog over the major regulatory agencies. In that way it can cover all of Landis' activities. We don't want any Sherman Adams in the White House in this Administration."

Nodding his head in agreement, Harris added: "I'll make the subcommittee a permanent one, name myself chairman, and keep a small staff that can be expanded rapidly if that should become necessary."

Inside You And Yours

Peptic Ulcers

Allen's family paced the corridor nervously while surgeons tried to repair his ulcer.

Only five months old, Allen already belonged to the ulcer set, where males outnumber females 3 to 1. Women seem protected until the change of life.

"Ulcers," technically called "peptic ulcers," are open sores inside the stomach or small intestine. Perhaps the lining is eaten away by excess stomach acid. Perhaps it's pounded and sandpapered by hopped-up intestinal muscle. No one knows.

When your stomach empties a few hours after eating, the ulcer gnaws like a giant hunger pain. Sometimes spasms sharpen the ache into cramps. Creamy milk and most foods can quiet this pain, but alcohol and spices feel like salt being rubbed into the raw wound.

His patients smoke, drink, carouse and eat anything, but he claims, their ulcers don't kick up any more often than those treated with the spice-free, greaseless, non-alcoholic menus.

Now don't go off your ulcer diet! He hasn't proven his idea yet.

Offsetting Nervous Tension
Nervous tension won't affect your ulcer if your feelings can't be telegraphed to the stomach. Many ulcer medicines numb stomach nerves that carry these messages.

Surgeons sometimes cut these nerves on purpose. But this and other surgery is usually reserved for complications like Allen's bleeding.

Female Hormones
British doctors have cured ulcers by giving men patients the womanly protection of female chemicals (hormones). But manliness disappeared along with the ulcer.

As doctors strive for a perfect ulcer cure, one thing is certain. Until they find it, you can expect more and more doctors to come down with ulcers!

X-Raying Ulcer
You have to swallow chalk-like—often chocolate-flavored—barium to outline the ulcer on X-ray pictures. Even then, the doctor has to push your stomach up, down, back and around to get the proper pose.

The main ingredient in ulcer remedies is rest.

Acid neutralizers and soothing milk or cream slow down acid secretion and rest intestinal muscles. Tranquilizers, psychiatrists and other nerve-soothers can rest your mind.

when worry and disappointment are hard to stomach. A belly full of nervous tension and frustration can trigger ulcers.

This may explain why ulcers tend to calm down during late spring and summer, when flowers bloom and it feels great to be alive. And why one Canadian doctor throws the special menu into the wastebasket once the ulcer calms down.

His patients smoke, drink, carouse and eat anything, but he claims, their ulcers don't kick up any more often than those treated with the spice-free, greaseless, non-alcoholic menus.

Favors Medicare Plan

Dear Mr. Editor:
I feel anyone is wrong who says Social Security health insurance is free, for each employee and employer will pay for it.

How many people know that there are health insurance companies that can drop them at any time no matter how much they pay in.

There's the case of the man who had health insurance for nine years. He became sick when he was 61 years of age and had to go to the hospital.

He sent the bill to his health insurance company. They paid half the bill, then dropped him. So what did he get for his money?

There are a lot of handicapped people who are not able to buy insurance of any kind. If so the insurance cost is so high he is not able to pay for it. Or it doesn't cover him fully.

I feel the Social Security system is the best for the handicapped people at this time.

There are a lot of old people and handicapped people on Social Security. They get just enough to live on. So how are they able to pay the high dollar for health insurance?

If they get sick or go to the hospital, who pays the bill? The family sometimes helps or it is up to the state. If the state has to keep paying out for old age or the handicapped I feel there is going to be more state tax.

I feel this health insurance by the Social Security System is a good thing for the working man for this reason. How many working men or women can pay for health insurance for any old or handicapped person in their family or pay the doctor bills or hospital bills for them?

Maybe the government should get into more of the so-called private businesses. It may help the working man and a lot of other people. I feel that with Social Security, I'm not going to be dropped at a time when I need it. I know there are health insurance companies that can do this.

As for writing to your congressman I feel the working people should do so in favor of health insurance by Social Security. Let's try to keep from getting a state tax to take care of this matter.

County Red Cross Official Lists Flood Safety Tips

THIS winter's record-breaking snowstorms are far from being just bad memories, according to Harold J. Pine, Jr., disaster chairman of the Monroe County Red Cross Chapter.

"A heavy blanket of melting snow covers many mountainous areas," said Pine. "This, coupled with spring rains, could easily swell creeks and rivers to an unprecedented level, making the danger of widespread flooding a very imminent possibility here."

Urges Observance
With these thoughts in mind, Pine urged Monroe County residents to observe a few simple precautions should floods strike here:

1. Keep tabs on the weather through radio, TV or newspaper. Be alert for police, Civil Defense, and Red Cross evacuation warnings and instructions.

2. Take a mental inventory of your most valued papers and personal effects. Know where they are in case you are forced to evacuate your home.

3. Take a moment to decide where you could go if floods invaded your home. Red Cross emergency relief shelters and canteen facilities will be open to all who need food or shelter.

4. If asked to evacuate your home, don't delay; prompt evacuation may save the lives not only of your own family but those of police and Civil Defense workers.

5. Once on safe ground, wait until the "all clear" signal is given by city officials before returning to your home. Live wires, collapsing buildings, and undermined streets may endanger your life.

6. Flash floods often give no warning. Keep a supply of canned foods handy which require no cooking in case you're stranded.

7. Keep a flashlight in working condition on hand in case of power failure.

Stressing the importance of observing these simple rules, Pine said that floods killed or injured thousands of people throughout the nation during 1960.

"When dealing with disaster," he said, "foresight is extremely important. Prudent thinking in advance will save you from much hardship and suffering if floods do come to the Monroe County area."

Geranium Is Open To Many Diseases

By GEORGE ABRAHAM

GERANIUM TROUBLES—Many readers who started their own geraniums from cuttings were disappointed to find their plants suddenly turned black and died. The geranium is one of the major pot plants grown in America, mainly for porch boxes, bedding and cemetery urns. Like all flowering plants it is susceptible to many diseases, especially bacterial stem rot. This disease attacks the leaves, stems and cuttings of geraniums, and it's the villain which troubles most beginners.

Control

Bake your soil in the oven at 250 degrees for 1/2 hour. There is no chemical known to check bacterial stem rot. Another heart-breaker is botrytis blight, affecting leaves, flowers and often cuttings. Flowers attacked by botrytis turn black, wilt and drop prematurely.

In wet weather the flowers have a fuzzy, matted growth; leaves develop spots which enlarge, killing the entire leaf. Control: Spray foliage with Zineb (same as Parzate or Diltane), 1 teaspoon to 2 qts. of water, or Captain, same rate.

Blackleg is a disease of cuttings and young plants. On young plants the fungus first attacks the base of the plant, later spreading to the stems which shrivel, turn black and rot. Control: Root cuttings in a sterile material such as Perlite or Vermiculite.

The secret to successful control of most geranium diseases is to take slips from disease-free plants, because once plant materials become infected there is nothing that can be done to free the plants. Start out with clean cuttings, from clean plants, and sterilize your soil by baking in the oven. These are your best weapons for fighting most geranium troubles.

Annuals Again

How early should annuals be started indoors? This depends on the variety. Petunias and Salvia should be started now if you want to transplant them for outdoor planting. A general rule to follow is: start slow growing kinds 8 to 10 weeks before the plants are needed and the faster growing kinds 4 to 5 weeks before setting outdoors.

Slower growers such as snapdragons, petunia and salvia should be started indoors about 6 to 10 weeks before plants are needed outside. And don't forget, if you sow seed, use a sterile material for sowing. This may include vermiculite, perlite, or a sand-peat mixture.

Soil or soil mixes should not

Question Box

Question of the week: W.C. of Stroudsburg: "During the past summer I had a beautiful bed of petunias in full bloom for quite sometime. Suddenly they were attacked by some type of disease which caused small spots to appear over the blossoms. Then the blossoms would wither and die, and drop off. In time the stalks and foliage took on a sickly look, eventually wilting to the ground. Can you tell me what's wrong from this description?"

This trouble sounds like botrytis, a fungus disease which is particularly prevalent in cool wet months, or during periods of heavy dew. As a general rule if the unfavorable weather conditions do not last too long, the plants will grow out of it as soon as warm sunny days come again. Some control is afforded by dusting or spraying with Captain regularly, especially during periods of prolonged wet weather. Some varieties are more resistant than others and it would be wise to select the less susceptible ones if you have botrytis consistently.

W.S. of Lansford: "I took a look at my gladiolus bulbs and found them to have sunken spots, some up to 1/4 inch across. Are these spoiled?"

Your gladioli have "Scab", a disease which looks worse than it really is. I'd treat them (if the varieties are choice), using bi-chloride of mercury (1 tablet to 1 pint of water) for 2 hours. Incidentally, it might be a good idea for other gardeners to dust their gladioli bulbs now (if you haven't done so) to check thrips.

G.R. of Warrertown: "Is it true that copper containers are bad for holding cut flowers. What is that white shredded material florists use for holding the flowers?"

Copper is harmless to plants or flowers. In fact, it might be helpful. Florists use shredded Styrofoam in containers to hold the flowers in place. They also use a light material known as "Oasis" which absorbs and holds water well. Others use a cheap grade of Vermiculite for keeping the flowers in place.

If you have evergreens growing outdoors, why not go out and snip off all long branches and use the twigs for stuffing a vase. Evergreens do the job just as well and by using them you help the trees in the pruning process. Incidentally, some florists use chicken wire for holding the flowers.

be used for starting seed unless you bake them in the oven at 200 degrees for 1/2 hour. Or treat with formaldehyde at rate of 2 1/2 tablespoons to each bushel, or 1 tablespoonful to a 20" by 14" by 3" seed flat. The formaldehyde is diluted with 5 or 6 parts of water and sprinkled over the soil. Allow soil to stand for 24 hours before sowing seed.

Landscaping Old Houses

When instructions are given for landscaping quite often we forget that many of us still live in high-posted houses, rather than ranch style dwellings. Towns and villages are full of high-in-the-air houses built a half century or more ago, and these need special thought. One way to bring the high-posted house down to earth is to make it seem wider, and to do this you need to plant shrubs at the corner and along the foundation. Recently built homes have little or no foundation showing, so usually the only planting needed is at the doors and corners.

There's a tendency among landscapers to restrict planting to the entrances and corners. On the corner of a tall house, you can afford to place tall growing shrubs such as lilac, double-fl ybnum, the old-fashioned smoke bush, planted well away from the walls.

Heavy planting at the entrances and the corners will do a lot to tie the house down to the ground. Now, in between the corners and the entrances of the old-fashioned home you're apt to have a lot of ugly foundation wall showing. One way to soften this is to paint the foundation the same color as the house. In other words, if your house is white, you wouldn't want to paint the foundation red or yellow.

The less contrast between the foundation and the house, the easier it is to hide. I don't mean that you must hide the foundation of your home completely. A little sticking out here and there does no harm, unless the wall itself is in bad shape.

Pruning Lilacs

Right now, when the gardeners' chores are few, is a good time to trim out dead wood and suckers from your lilac bush. If you have an old bush you can rejuvenate it by cutting down the old trunks flush with the ground level. You'll get more suckers next summer, but these too should be thinned out as they can be a drain on the plant. Remember, shoots will eventually grow into flowering plants, so you'll want to save some. In fact, when warm weather comes, you might want to transplant some of the suckers, as it's an easy and inexpensive means of increase.

Growing Orchids

A hobbyist writes: "From my experience, I've found the culture of orchids to be simple indoors, if one uses Cattleyas and Cynrepediums. I'd discourage Cymbidium hybrids as the flower spikes mature and the buds would drop off. They need a maximum night temperature of

PIDC Asks Walter Aid On Tax Bill

HAZLETON — Rep. Francis E. Walter, (D-Pa.) was asked yesterday by the Northeast Pennsylvania Industrial Development Commission to arrange for regional testimony on his bill to make income tax-free any contribution and gifts made to non-profit industrial development corporations.

Cong. Walter introduced a proposed amendment to the Internal Revenue Code Jan. 12 and it was referred to the House Ways and Means Committee at that time.

Victor C. Diehm, NPIDC president, wrote the Easton Congressman, "There is considerable interest in our area in your proposal to amend the Internal Revenue Code to permit income tax deduction for contributions and gifts to non-profit industrial development corporations."

"When your bill — H. R. 2588 — is listed for public hearing if that be the disposition of the Ways and Means Committee chairman, there are several regional industrial development leaders who would like to testify in support of this necessary legislation," Diehm's letter read.

Indicates Interest

The NPIDC official pointed out, "Your awareness of regional need for soliciting new outright financial gifts to continue and expand our non-profit community industrial development programs, indicates your sincere interest to NPIDC and that you are working hard for our communities which help themselves through locally sponsored and lead programs to create new jobs."

Diehm said that northeastern Pennsylvania communities have the most outstanding record in the nation where citizens, corporations, and banks have contributed cold cash to restore the regional economy through the creation of new employment.

Spring Leaks Into Cellars At Barrett

By PAT WILLIAMS

BARRETT—Spring has leaked into many Barrett Cellars. No fishing and no swimming signs have been posted on cellar doors. Feeling that Spring is not too far away, several robins have been sighted, still in union suits, but here.

Thoughts turn to spring housecleaning, and to help out, a coin operated laundry is being installed smack at the crossroads in the village. Opening date is expected about the first of April or soon after. Sidewalks are also re-appearing after all the snow that has been piled up.

Parties for little girls are a special notation on the calendar, along with the Washington's birthday dance Friday night. Barrett residents from the pre-school set to the adults are coming out of weather imposed hibernation.

Miss Barbara Price will turn five years old on Thursday with a number of her friends to help celebrate at her house.

Many mothers can foresee the end of the round of boots and mittens. It would be a bright spot since few of them fit the children any longer, and those that do have been removed by a crew of overly friendly dogs. Barrett is ready for the new season both socially and with heartfelt sighs of relief. Anybody for another old-fashioned Winter? ?

A GREAT THING, INCENTIVE

It inspires you—and your telephone company—to do a better job

Incentives spur people all their lives. In school, your incentive may be making the varsity or honor roll. As you grow older, it is more likely your first promotion or pay increase. And for families, incentives include owning a home, sending children to college, security in retirement.

The incentive that makes you work harder is reward for good performance.

A noteworthy thing about incentive is that the rewards of good performance are shared with others. The school benefits by the good performance of scholars and athletes. Your family shares the rewards of your individual accomplishments.

Companies are very human about incentives, too—for companies are only groups of people with their own hopes and goals. Incentives can work wonders for any business.

In the business world, the reward for good performance is adequate earnings. The telephone company is no exception.

The reward for good business performance is also shared with others. Adequate earnings benefit everyone because they enable business to grow and make continually greater contributions to the public good. This, too, is as true of the telephone business as any other.

Weather Outlook

Extended forecasts for Feb. 23 through Feb. 27

Eastern Pennsylvania, south-eastern New York and New Jersey—Temperatures are expected to average 6 or more degrees above normal. Mild most of the time but somewhat colder in upstate New York Friday and Saturday and again about the end of the period. Precipitation may total over 1/2 inch occurring as rain Thursday and again toward the end of the period.

Middle Atlantic States—Temperatures will average more than 6 degrees above normal. Warmer Thursday and Friday will be followed by cooler over the weekend. Precipitation amounts will average over 1/2 inch, occurring as rain tonight and Thursday and as showers over the weekend.

Western Pennsylvania—Temperatures will average 8 to 10 degrees above the normals. Mild through out the period with little day to day temperature change. Precipitation three-tenths to four-tenths of an inch, occurring as rain periods and showers over the weekend.

Western New York—Temperatures will average 7 to 9 degrees above the normals. A little cooler about Thursday, warming over the weekend and then cooler again early next week. Precipitation will average about 1/2 inch melted, occurring as scattered showers throughout the period, mixed with snow flurries during cooler periods especially in eastern sections.

Surgery for the elimination of bunions, toe malformations and other common foot problems will be shown on closed circuit television at the Lecture Theatre in the Barbizon Plaza Hotel.

Over 2,000 foot specialists from the United States and Canada are expected at the three-day meeting.

Teacher Grads Start At $4,250

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — Pennsylvania State University said Wednesday the nearly 800 qualified teachers it will graduate this year can expect starting salaries averaging about $4,250 in Pennsylvania.

Raymond H. Amalung, director of teacher placement, said teachers graduated from the university last year averaged about $4,040 in Pennsylvania and $4,550 in other states.

He said the demand for public school teachers will be greater than last year, when there were 19,640 vacancies, but that no serious shortage is anticipated.

Just Between Us—

By Bobby Westbrook

You do delight me! Somehow I can always count on you to do the unexpected. Plucking the name Afghanistan out of the air the other day as an unlikely place to go—I discover that one of you has not only been there but while she was there managed to visit the equivalent of their Woman's Club where she found the Afghanistans cutting out Vogue patterns!

A likely story! Only if you know that the person was Mrs. Henry P. Surrey who in her quiet, unassuming way is just the person to do such a fantastic thing. Held up four days in Afghanistan by the weather, she visited the Women's Institute where she found American Women with the aid of interpreters teaching the women to make Western clothes by Vogue patterns in a free service furnished by the company and the Americans.

She understands that Vogue is going to send a representative there to write up the results of the experiment—and when you consider that the women of Afghanistan had only been permitted to go without their veils less than six months, the results should be fascinating. I wonder whom I should telegraph to say that I'm already packed?

Of course you'd have to help me conceal the evidence of incompetency revealed in certain columns confessing the ease with which I can get into difficulties nobody else ever even thought of.

are times when I question the wisdom of being so free with my confidences.

Have you ever heard somebody complain about—well, being bow-legged for instance? able to keep from looking to see if they really were as bow-legged as they claimed? Well, everybody always expects me to do foolish things—and in spite of myself I usually oblige.

Like the Garden Club meeting last week where I got off to a smooth start by spraying the slides I had so carefully sorted and arranged all over the room so that when the time came to show them the members got crooked-necked trying to see Roman Forum sideways and the Wedding Cake upside down.

But what I lose in respect I gain in a feeling of kinship—and I haven't the least idea whether Mrs. Edward Tiebout is a fellow fumbler or not—but in her kind note from Kew Gardens she seemed quite interested to know "How in the world can one person (1) get into as many delightfully ridiculous scrapes as you do"

I'd be interested in the answer too. If I knew I probably wouldn't get into them. Let's just be kind and say it's because I'm thinking of something else instead of what I'm doing—principally you and trying to anticipate what you're likely to do next. Just let me in on it.

String Trio Plays At Zion Guild Meeting

A string trio composed of Hans Buedicker, Howard Alles and Michael Finelli played a number of selections for the Women's Guild of Zion United Church of Christ at their meeting on Tuesday night.

The program, arranged by Mrs. Joseph Carr, featured a panel on "Unity in Personal Relationships" in which Mrs. Donald Gilpin, Mrs. Victor Koch and Mrs. Harold Cleaver took part. Devotions were led by Mrs. Koch and Mrs. Hugh Alto.

Refreshments were served from a table decorated in red, white and blue for the patriotic holidays of February by Mrs. John Hiller, Mrs. Mel Dunn, Mrs. Mary Vough, Mrs. Webb Heller, Mrs. Carrie Pipher and Mrs. Ernest Setzer.

Leisure Hour Club Eats Its Program Theme

The Leisure Hour Club yesterday not only ate ice cream but the dish itself but they also learned about its history and manufacture at their meeting held at the YMCA. Miss Helen McKinley, representative of a dairy company, was their guest speaker.

She said that the first ice cream was made from snow, and that our modern version had its origin when a traveler in Italy tasted their sherbert and came home to adapt it to American taste. A film on "Ice Cream Land" and another on how it is manufactured today were shown.

Edward Parsons, local representative, and Miss McKinley joined as hosts in serving refreshments. Mrs. Ora Woodling and Mrs. Lydia Kirkhuff were on the hostess committee. The centerpiece were miniature cherry trees with candy cherries for Washington's Birthday.

At the business meeting, the club ordered new song books and discussed plans for their trip to the Philadelphia Flower Show on March 7. Anyone desiring bus reservations is asked to call Mrs. Effie Heller HA 1-1340.

Parents Chorus To Sing To PTA

The Wyckoff
Shopper

The Wyckoff
Shopper

Sitting before a typewriter day after day writing a column; or chatting into a microphone, carrying on a one-sided conversation could be the most frustrating job in the world, I guess. It could, at least, if one thought only of the mechanical involvements: the keyboard that can print any word of our language, good, bad, or indifferent; the cold steel, perforated gadget at the end of a cord that can pick up every inflection, every breath, every chuckle or sigh.

Long ago, I lost my awareness of all this. Typing and talking are just a way of reaching out to people, and at my work I try to picture the faces of the men and women who read and listen. This is difficult sometimes, for all the imagined features melt into one big blur of namelessness. But after my very interesting experience of Monday, at least a half-dozen of the faces I pictured during today's broadcast were those of elderly women, who reside at our Monroe County Home in Kellersville.

Our Wyckoff store bus, which has a delightful way of getting around, points its headlights once each month in the direction of the home, and skims along happily, anticipating a big afternoon just as surely as do the twenty-some men and women who wait at the foot of the steps as it rolls into view. When weather or other interferences delay the bus a day or two, they take note, and always remind The Driver that he was missed.

This past Monday he was right on the dot. The weather was balmy and beautiful. The bus was raring to go. So, maybe, was The Driver . . . and it was exciting for me to be invited to join the outing. The little lady who sat down beside me, told me everyone had dressed special for the trip, but that she was wearing her old coat. "But that doesn't matter, does it?" she asked. "I do have a black coat, but I didn't wear that one today."

I assured her it made no difference at all—her blue coat was very nice, and she looked very dressed up. It was true—and I shared her very obvious delight at this opportunity to "get away from it all" and hit the open road. Everyone smiled contentedly as the orange bus headed for the highway . . . and everyone agreed the snow had melted astoundingly in the few brief days of sunshine. "I'd like to see Lutheland," Mrs. Haney, the sweet-faced matron, told The Driver. "Not today, but someday." But before we knew it our agreeable bus was headed in that direction and we sailed merrily on. Along the way we saw Eugene Haller strolling around his yard. He was invited to join the party, and it is difficult to say just who among us had the grandest time.

Our Driver was a very exceptional person—eager to please, knowledgeable about every inch of the ground we covered, and quick to point out Pocono Manor, whose grounds we toured; the artificial lakes where ice cutting was big business not too many years ago, scenes from his boyhood, and all the attractions of Lutheland. At one point we passed a group of children enjoying a horse drawn straw ride. The bus buzzed momentarily with memories. But for the most part the passengers were quiet, their heads turning from side to side as they drank in fresh air . . . the first signs of a passing winter . . . brooks bubbling busily, sometimes almost rambunctiously, against their slowly yielding confines of ice . . . tall pines, and rhododendron, standing darkly green in the shadows of a white carpeted woodland.

It was an afternoon to remember. An afternoon in which, when I had a moment to reflect, I thought how wonderful it was that these 22 men and women could have such a grand outing . . . and when I felt proud and happy that so many of them recognized my voice. "Aren't you Madalyn," they asked, "Aren't you the Wyckoff Shopper? Why, Madalyn, we hear you every morning." When people say this to me, I am never quite sure how to answer, so I usually just say, "I'm glad you do—thank you." And I always mean that "thank you" most sincerely.

When Our Driver (you see, he prefers to be nameless, but I give you three guesses!) deposited his guests back home, they said "Goodbye" fondly. A few added "God bless you." God will, I am sure! And I was blessed too. It's so nice to have friends, and to share an afternoon with them.

Some Day He'll Come Along

Dear Abby: I have two very fine, well-established gentlemen in love with me, but I cannot for the life of me make up my mind which one I want. Each knows about the other and have both been so patient with me I am even more in doubt than ever. If only one would give up so I wouldn't have this decision to make.

I feel like such a fool, Abby, telling them to give me more time. I am 29 years old and should know what I want. When I think I want one, my heart hurts so for the other. I have changed my mind a dozen times back and forth. Is it possible to be in love with two men? I think that's my trouble.

ALL MIXED UP
Dear Abby: You are infatuated, grateful, flattered and confused, but you aren't in love with either man. A woman "in love" isn't tortured by indecision. She KNOWS!

Dear Abby: When eating seafood, is it proper to eat the toast underneath the seafood? I have been told the toast is put there only to absorb the steam and moisture and is not meant to be eaten. It was delicious.

IN DOUBT
Dear Abby: You may eat anything served to you that is edible. When in doubt, watch your hostess. I know a man who actually cut up and ate the lace paper dolly on his dessert plate. He thought it was "tough meringue."

Dear Abby: I am a boy who is 14. I take piano lessons and want to be a fashion designer. To most boys I am an ideal sissy. On the bus going home from school they pester me and try to pick a fight. Abby, I don't want to fight although I think I could knock their stupid blocks off. Don't tell me to ignore them. It won't do any good.

HATES TO FIGHT
Dear Abby: Take a few boxing lessons. Even if you never raise your fists in anger it will be good for your self-confidence to know you can defend yourself if you ever have to.

Dear Abby: You said in your column that smokers were the most selfish people in the world. I think you're wrong. Dog-owners are.

"HIGH STEPPER"
Yes, Abby will answer your letter personally if you write to Abby, care of The Daily Record, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Western Union Budgets $105-M

NEW YORK (AP) — Western Union has budgeted $105 million—more than double the 1960 outlay—for capital expenditures in 1961 in the fields of private wire, data transmission, facsimile and other telecommunications services.

Walter P. Marshall, president, said in the annual report to stockholders that "vast increases in telecommunications facilities will be required within the next few years. He noted that some industry spokesmen feel the volume of data communication in a relatively few years will exceed the present volume of long distance voice communication.

The capital expenditures budget compares with the 1960 total of $45 million.

Study Legality Of Proposal

HARRISBURG (AP) — A state official told five Luzerne County school districts yesterday that he thinks it is lawful to place the question of a proposed merger on the spring primary ballot.

Roy Cleaver, director of the Public Instruction Department's bureau of school district organization, said he feels it "was an inadvertency" that "primary" election was left out of a statute passed by the General Assembly in December 1960.

Attorneys Joseph V. Kaspar of Dupont and John R. Reap of Pittston took the position that this omission meant the repeal of a law passed earlier that year making the question lawful on the primary ballot.

Aluminum Output Dips

NEW YORK (AP) — Primary aluminum production in January declined to 161,427 tons, the Aluminum Association reported Wednesday.

This was slightly below both the December pace of 165,504 tons and output in January 1960 of 164,024 tons.

They are solicitors for the Dupont, Duryea, Hughestown, Avoca and Pittston school districts, which contend that on this basis their proposed merger with the Jenkins and Yatesville districts is unlawful.

West Chester Whips ESSC

WEST CHESTER — West Chester State College sent East Stroudsburg State College to its fourth straight loss last night, 97-81.

The defeat puts the Warriors' record at 11-8, with two home games left on the schedule.

It was the second time this year, that West Chester, the second place team in the Eastern Division of the Pennsylvania State College Conference, has beaten East Stroudsburg.

Juenger Has 24

The Rams used eight players, with five of them hitting double figures. Jack Juenger was the high points man in the game with 24. His teammate Dick Taylor, a long jump shot artist, added 21 points. Juenger collected 10 of his points from the foul line.

Russell Hopewell and Larry Walsh had 22 points each for East Stroudsburg, which has been able to hold fourth place in the league, despite its losing streak.

Hopewell's output raised his three-year scoring mark at Normal Hill to 1023.

Joe Habakus was the only other Warrior to score more than 10 points. Habakus hit 11 points, while Ken Hendricks had eight. Tony Salerno and John Polonchak seven each and Scott Weaver added four.

West Chester had only three more field goals than East Stroudsburg 36-33 but scored 25 points from the foul line. The Warriors had only 15 free throw points, coming on 20 attempts.

Small Leads

East Stroudsburg held several small leads during the first half and lost its last lead with only six seconds left in the half, when Taylor scored on a jumper to make it 38-36. West Chester at the intermission.

West Chester wasted little time in pulling away in the second half and with 14:34 left in the game, had a 51-43 advantage.

The Rams upped the advantage to 10 points three minutes later and with 7:33 left still had the same spread.

The East Stroudsburg junior varsity team, which has dropped only three games this season, won the preliminary 75-71.

Texas Team Pads Small College Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Prairie View pushed further ahead of Tennessee State this week as leader of the Associated Press' small college basketball poll.

The Texas team received seven of the 10 first place votes from a special panel of sports writers and broadcasters for a total of 93 points.

That was 26 points ahead of Tennessee State, which led the poll for several weeks midway in the campaign. The Nashville, Tenn., team, small college champion three straight years before losing out last season, got only one first place vote and 67 points.

A week ago, Prairie View held only a slim four-point edge over its Dixie rival—72 to 68. Points are based on 10 for a first place vote, nine for second, etc.

Prairie View has lost only one game in 23 starts. Tennessee State has a 22-4 mark.

Hofstra Fifth
Mississippi Southern (19-2) moved ahead of Southern Illinois (20-4) for third place, followed by Hofstra, Northern Michigan, Grambling, Westminster, (Pa.), Mt. St. Mary's and Maine and Calvin, who tied for 10th.

Northern Michigan and Westminster each gained a notch while Grambling fell from sixth to seventh. Kentucky Wesleyan, 10th last week, dropped from the list. Mt. St. Mary's and Calvin moved into the top 10.

The leaders, with first place votes and records through Saturday's games in parentheses (points on a 10-9-8, etc., basis):

1. Prairie View (7) (22-1) 93
2. Tennessee State (1) (22-4) 67
3. Mississippi Southern (1) (19-2) 54
4. Southern Illinois (20-4) 37
5. Hofstra (1) (17-2) 35
6. Northern Michigan (16-2) 24
7. Grambling (25-4) 18
8. Westminster (Pa) (13-3) 18
9. Mt. St. Mary's (16-3) 16
10. (tie) Maine (16-4) 10
- Calvin (17-0) 10

Tough Part Is Finding Game

Pistol Master Says Hunting Easier Than Target Shooting

By CURT PRINS
Sports Editor

FOR 21 YEARS, Capt. Ernest Kelly has been taking part in pistol and rifle competitions and he doesn't plan to retire from the sport until "I'm too old to pick up a weapon."

Kelly, the finance officer at Tobyhanna Signal Depot, is only 44 years old, which gives him many more years of picking up a weapon.

During his years of competitive shooting, Kelly, who lives on Rt. 490 in Tobyhanna, has collected more than 50 championships, including 4th Army 22 Caliber Pistol title in 1950 and the 1956 All-Europe .45 pistol crown. He won the European Northern Area Command Pistol Championship two years in a row.

Coaches Team

Kelly spends five hours a week on the firing range. Tobyhanna has both an indoor and outdoor facility. He also coaches the Tobyhanna Rifle Team. His 1959 team won the Signal Corps Championship for medium and small size installations.

When he was firing for military teams in Europe, Kelly of ten spent eight hours a day for six weeks pulling triggers. He estimated that in the last 10 years, he has fired 100,000 rounds of .22 ammunition, 50,000 rounds of .45 and 40,000 rounds of .38 ammunition. Most of the ammunition was hand-loaded or homemade.

By handloading, Kelly estimates he saves nine cents on each .45 shell and about the same savings on other types of ammunition. On some hunting shells, he can save as much as 20 cents using do-it-yourself methods, which include casting the bullet out of scrap lead. He saves the brass casings for re-use.

Kelly has competed at the Camp Perry, Ohio matches, "The World Series of Shooting," only once. But he was the highest scorer in the sharpshooter division, the third highest classification of target shooting. That was in 1953, the same year that he jumped to the master category, the highest classification in marksmanship. In order to earn the master's title, the shooter must score 91 or better out of a possible 100 points in competition.

Perfect Scores

Perfect scores in target competition for an entire event are unheard of. "I've never known of anyone getting a perfect score," says Kelly, "although there have been perfect scores in one part of the competition, such as the prone (lying down) position in rifle matches."

The closest Kelly has come to a perfect score, is a 293 out of a possible 300 in .22 caliber competition. His tops with the .38 is 290 and his best .45 mark is 285.

"The .45 is the hardest pistol to use," says Kelly. "It has a great deal of recoil and for competition a four-pound trigger pull is required. The 22 requirement is only two pounds." The trigger pull weight is the amount of force, measured in pounds, that must be placed on the trigger to make the weapon fire.

Beside his target shooting, Kelly is also an avid hunter.

Hunting Easier

"Hunting is much easier than target shooting," says Kelly. "The targets are bigger and usually closer. The part of hunting that is difficult is finding something to shoot." Kelly admits though that he has missed some easy hunting shots.

Kelly fires in about five matches a year now. In 1950 and 1953 he competed in 10 events, his high mark.

Although Kelly wears glasses, he says they do not hamper his shooting. "Target shooters should wear glasses," says Kelly, "even if they don't need them."

Protect Eyes

Kelly explained that glasses protect the eyes in the event a casing splits. Glasses with non-prescription glass are recommended for shooters with 20-20 vision.

"I had a casing explode on the range once," Kelly recalls, "but the glasses saved my eyes. I suffered some powder burns around the rim of the glasses, but that was the extent of the damage."

Kelly is not quite sure how many weapons he owns, although he admits "it's quite an arsenal."

His most costly weapon is a .38 automatic pistol, valued at $180.

Kelly adds that "shooting is not an expensive hobby."

WINNING WEAPON—Capt. Ernest Kelly shows his son Terence, 7, how to load a .38 caliber pistol. Kelley, Finance Officer at Tobyhanna Signal Depot, has won 50 pistol and rifle championships.

Says He Can Kill It

Tennis Leader Opposed To Open Net Event Movement

NEWTON, Mass. (AP)—Harri-son R. vobdum, president of the power, New England Lawn Tennis Association, has declared himself solidly opposed to the open tennis movement "in any form."

And the president of the USLTA's largest section, who says he has enough backing to kill any such proposal, has fired off a letter to USLTA President George Barnes of Chicago spelling out his position.

"We're going to keep amateur tennis amateur," Rowbotham insists.

"I'm willing to sit down with Barnes and discuss what can be done about the problem. But I'm not going to sit by and watch amateur tennis thrown to Jack Kramer, (pro tennis promoter)."

"And I'm not alone in this. I think we have 36,000 out of 79,000 votes if the open tennis proposal comes before the USLTA. That's enough to kill it."

Kramer recently proposed a tourney, or series of tourneys, which would be open to both pro and the top amateur players. He also said amateur tennis is doomed.

Sam Snead Entered In Golf Event

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Sam Snead, one of the old guard greats, will add sparkle when the $20,000 Baton Rouge Open Golf Tourney starts Friday a day late.

Tournament officials decided, because of recent rain, to delay one day, giving players at least time for one practice round on the Sherwood Forest County Club course.

The gallery drawing Snead picked Baton Rouge for one of his few tour forces this season.

Flat Course

The par 70 course is flat and stretches 6,700 yards.

Tournament managers now plan to stage 36 holes of final play Sunday.

The defending champion is Arnold Palmer, second money winner of the season at $12,425.

Gary Player, the South African who leads this season's pros with $14,532 in winnings and the Tucson Open tilt, also will play.

Floyd Dumps 2 Partners In Workout

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) —

Both Ingemar Johansson and Heavyweight Champion Floyd Patterson, whom he hopes to dethrone, will spend Thursday in Palm Beach where Ingo trains. But there are no plans for them to meet.

The two heavyweights will cut tapes with Jackie Gleason for a television show.

Johansson, who has taken it easy for two days while recuperating from a head cold, resumed active training Wednesday.

He got in some roadwork and sparring, jogged five miles on a golf course and boxed a total of six rounds with sparmates Freddie Blaes, Cliff Morris and Solomon Macatier.

Starts Slugging

At Patterson's Miami Beach hotel training camp, the champion sparred five rounds and shifted gears from boxing to slugging.

Patterson also jogged five miles around Miami Beach High School's grounds.

BRITE STAR — Ken Nickischer, (right) East Stroudsburg State College wrestler, is the latest Brite Star of the Week. Nickischer of Northampton, has lost only twice in nine bouts this year, the best record of any Warrior wrestler. Coach Jim Reed is shown working with Nickischer during a practice session at Normal Hill.

Lehigh-N'hampton Loop Splits Into North-South

NAZARETH — The Lehigh-Norhampton Athletic League was divided into a Northern and Southern division for its basketball and baseball play last night.

Starting with the 1961-62 basketball season the league will operate with the split set-up, with the division champions meeting for the league title.

The Northern Division will have East Stroudsburg, Nazareth, Bangor, Pen Argyl, Wilson Boro and Hellertown. Parkland, Coplay, Fountainhill, Southern Lehigh, Northwestern and Palisades will make up the Southern Division. Southern Lehigh, Northwestern and Palisades will be admitted to the league next year.

There will be both Class A and Class B playoffs within the league. Parkland, Nazareth, East Stroudsburg and Wilson Boro are the only Class A teams while Coplay, as Class C team, will play in Class B. The class ratings are based on enrollment.

Each team will have only 10 league games, all between divisional teams. Games played between Northern and Southern teams will not count in the league standings.

The basketball league will open on Dec. 29. During January, league games will be played only on Friday night. There will be Tuesday and Friday night league action in January.

Football Not Affected
The coming baseball season will not operate on the split basis because the league schedule has been drawn up. The football set-up will continue to operate on the one division system. Coplay does not participate in league football and Fountainhill, Southern Lehigh, Northwestern and Palisades do not have grid teams.

The league, holding its first meeting under new President Jack Kist, East Stroudsburg High football coach, also discussed the possibility of forming a wrestling league within the next year.

ALLSTATE
TRIPLE GUARANTEE
1. Lifetime Guarantee against all defects in material and workmanship prorated on tread wear.
2. Time Service Guarantee against all types of road hazards prorated on months used.
3. Satisfaction Guaranteed or your money back. All adjustments are based on the current price without trade-in at time of return.

You Can't Get a Better Tire Guarantee Than Sears ALLSTATE
Check these points before you buy!
1—The ALLSTATE tire guarantee is honored on a monthly basis, not just on tread wear.
2—If adjustments are necessary they are based on the current trade-in prices.
All Tire Guarantees do not give you this protection! Check before you buy. Remember you can't get a better tire guarantee than Sears Allstate. Visit Sears Stroudsburg store today.

Pension Fund Investments

By William A. Doyle
Q. I am a high-school teacher. The money in our pension fund has always been invested in fixed-income securities, such as bonds. Under this system, a teacher who retires receives equal pension payments each month, based on years of service and salary earned. We are now being given the opportunity to choose between the old system and a new plan.

Under the new plan half of my pension money would remain invested the old way. The other half would be put in a variable annuity. The money from that half could be invested in common stocks. Which plan do you feel would work out better for me?

A. There's no way of knowing—sure. Everything would depend, of course, on the variable portion of your pension investment. The people who handle investments for pension funds are usually conservative and sensible. If the common stocks they choose increase in market price and dividend payments over the years, the variable part of the new plan could be its most valuable feature.

The part of your pension fund which would be invested in common stocks would be your hedge against inflation. That's something you don't have in a fixed-income investment.

It is because of this that more and more retirement money is being put into common stocks. Pension funds set up by corporations, labor unions, etc., have stepped up their purchases of stocks in the postwar period.

Plans such as your outline have been available to college professors for a number of years. But, to date, this method has not been popular with public-school teachers' pension systems. Nevertheless, it is bound to gain wider acceptance in the future.

Q. How can I figure the percentage I am earning on my mutual fund shares? This fund paid dividends of 11 cents per share in March, June and September and 13 cents in December. In February, it made a capital-gains distribution of 61 cents a share.

A. What you call the percentage you are earning is, more correctly, called the "current yield." You get that by totalling the dividends paid in the last 12 months (46 cents, in this case) and dividing that by the current offering price of the fund's shares.

For instance, let's say the current offering price per share is $18.40. By dividing $18.40 in to 46 cents, you come up with a current yield of 2.5 percent.

Some people have worked out different and more complicated methods of figuring current yields. But this is the standard way of getting the current yield on any investment.

Don't make the mistake of including the capital-gains distribution as part of your yield. Your yield is what you earn on your investment. Dividends represent your earnings. Capital gains distributions do not. They are a return of profits on your investments.

Q. You have pointed out that some Canadian stocks are on the U. S. Securities and Exchange Commission's "Canadian Restricted List" and cannot be "bought, sold or offered for sale" in this country. Who could stop me from making a phone call to a Canadian broker and buying those stocks?

A. Nobody could stop you—if you're silly enough to do it. P. T. Barnum said "there's a sucker born every minute." You are evidently out to prove the old boy was right.

Business Failures Up

NEW YORK (AP)—Business failures rose 4 per cent in January to 1,404, lifting casualties beyond those for any month since April, 1958, Dun & Bradstreet reported Wednesday.

The business reporting service said the rate of failures came to 61 per 10,000 listed enterprises, up from 51 in January 1960. Dollar liabilities edged 3 per cent higher to $81.5 million.

Fewer manufacturers and construction contractors failed than in any of the preceding three months but tolls rose in other classifications.

Four Signs Of Spring

NEWFOUNDLAND—Four signs of Spring have been observed in this Pocomo Mountains area:

Within a week, the first daffodils blossomed; the first Robin was sighted in LaAnna; a flight of geese honked its way Northward; and the maple sap began to run!

Interesting Trip To Timbuktu

SHAKI, NIGERIA, (enroute to Timbuktu, the first day) — I'm writing this by candle-light. The generators which supply electricity to this remote Baptist Mission are turned off at 10:30 p.m. and are turned on again at 6:30 in the morning.

We left Lagos at 2:30 this afternoon and arrived here at 8:00. Shaki is 213 miles of relatively good road north of the Federal capital, and about 25 miles from the Dahomey border. The dense, tropical vegetation began to thin out about 80 miles south of here. We are now in what might be described as the high plains.

It was dark when we arrived and after a few inquiries regarding possible accommodations for the right we found the Baptist Mission Hospital. We were very impressed, particularly with the cleanliness.

A group of Yoruba women on the porch directed us to an attendant, who in turn directed us to a male nurse who pointed to an electrically-lighted house a few hundred yards away, telling us that it was the home of the mission doctor in charge.

Dr. and Mrs. Roy H. Fanoni greeted us most warmly. Except for a few other Americans on the staff here, we were the first new faces they had seen in many weeks. They were having supper when we arrived and insisted we join them.

The spaghetti was wonderful.

They soon said there was no need to point out the village's non-catering rest house to us as they had plenty of room and we were most welcome to stay.

So, as a result of their kindness, my mosquito-netting and five days supply of food are still packed under the tarpaulin atop the Volkswagen, along with our five gallon supply of drinking water, Tilly-lamp, other camping equipment, etc.

Our hosts are a young couple. The doctor is from Akron, Ohio, and completed his graduate studies and internship at Columbia University and St. Luke's Hospital, New York. Mrs. Fanoni is originally from Galveston, Texas.

"Nothing Prevalent"

I asked the doctor what diseases are most prevalent with his patients and he said, "Nothing is really prevalent," but that, TB is having its run at present." His soft-spoken manner then took on evidence of near bitterness and he continued by saying that one of his greatest problems is trying to undo what the "witch-doctors" have done.

He then told the story of a young mother who died on the hospital steps that morning, before he could get her to a bed. Her stomach had been slashed many times by a knife. Cause of death: knife wounds. The native ju-ju doctor had cheated the mission staff out of curing another patient.

New '61 Chevy with Jet-smooth ride!

Impala 4-Door Sedan—Jet-smooth traveler that rivals the luxury cars in everything but price

The '61 Chevy loves to go because it goes so well. Purrs along pavements like a happy tabby. Takes rough roads in stride and all roads in style.

Just why does a Jet-smooth Chevy treat riders as royally as the high-priced luxury cars? It all came about through a delightful blend of Full Coil suspension, precision-balanced wheels, unique chassis cushioning, and a superb Body by Fisher insulated to hush away road sounds. All this adds up to less sway, less jounce, less dip, less dive, less tilt, less noise, less... well you name it.

Now combine this Jet-smooth ride with conveniences to pamper you and roominess to relax in. Add a full measure of quiet good looks. Voila, you've got Chevy's formula.

And the proof is in the riding. When you sample a Jet-smooth Chevy at your Chevrolet dealer's we think you'll find it just to your taste.
